RATTAN & CANE

A strong trend for a number of years, cane and rattan products are perfectly suited to outdoor use. Rattan is traditionally woven from climbing vines that can be twisted and shaped to create robust, weatherproof furniture. Alternative synthetic fibres have been developed for added durability and easy maintenance. At Hill Cross we are proud to offer both synthetics and natural variants within our Rattan and Cane range.

OUTDOOR TABLE TOPS EXPLAINED

Iroko Table Tops

Iroko is a type of wood that is prized for its open-pored texture and mild luster. Its distinctive appearance and durability make it a popular choice for a variety of uses, including furniture, flooring, and shipbuilding.

One of the most notable aspects of Iroko is that it can be used as a substitute for teak, a highly sought-after species of wood that is known for its exceptional hardness, stability, and resistance to decay.

As Iroko ages, its color naturally darkens and becomes more similar to teak, which is another reason why it is often used as a substitute. While it may not have the same level of density or hardness as teak, Iroko is still a highly durable and versatile wood that is well-suited to a range of applications. Additionally, because it is widely available and sustainably harvested in many regions, it is often a more economical choice than teak, making it a popular choice for both residential and commercial projects.
